

Guitar Notes. By Mary Amato. Tripp and Lyla have a love of music, but for different reasons. They share a practice room on opposite days. Lyla writes Tripp a note for leaving the music room a mess; Tripp writes back. More notes follow. What is the meaning behind all the notes?

Iron Trial. By Holly Black and Cassandra Clare. Callum Hunt's father has warned him that he must fail the Iron Trial that would put him in the Magisterium, the magic school. In spite of Call's best efforts to fail, he is selected for the school. There he makes friends and meets dangerous enemies.

All Fall Down. By Ally Carter. Everyone thinks Grace is crazy because she insists her mother's death was murder, not an accident. The truth is even more horrifying.

The Testing. By Joelle Charbonneau. After the Seven Stages War, students are only allowed to go to the University after they survive the Testing. Cia, who passes the Testing, comes to understand why her father warned her to trust no one.

Moxie and the Art of Rule Breaking. By Erin Dionne. Moxie's grandpa, who has a shady past, is accused of stealing artwork from a museum years before. Now Moxie and her friends are on a mission to find the artwork before her grandpa is arrested.

Better off Friends. By Elizabeth Eulberg. Levi and Macalan have been best friends since 7th grade. Everyone thinks they are more than just friends. From time to time, each of them considers this possibility but never at the same time.

The Walk On. By John Feinstein. Alex, a new kid in town, must fight for his place on the football team. Matt, the coach's son, is first in line to play quarterback. When Matt is injured, Alex gets his chance but a drug test may take everything away.

Guitar Notes. By Mary Amato. Tripp and Lyla have a love of music, but for different reasons. They share a practice room on opposite days. Lyla writes Tripp a note for leaving the music room a mess; Tripp writes back. More notes follow. What is the meaning behind all the notes?

Iron Trial. By Holly Black and Cassandra Clare. Callum Hunt's father has warned him that he must fail the Iron Trial that would put him in the Magisterium, the magic school. In spite of Call's best efforts to fail, he is selected for the school. There he makes friends and meets dangerous enemies.

All Fall Down. By Ally Carter. Everyone thinks Grace is crazy because she insists her mother's death was murder, not an accident. The truth is even more horrifying.

The Testing. By Joelle Charbonneau. After the Seven Stages War, students are only allowed to go to the University after they survive the Testing. Cia, who passes the Testing, comes to understand why her father warned her to trust no one.

Moxie and the Art of Rule Breaking. By Erin Dionne. Moxie's grandpa, who has a shady past, is accused of stealing artwork from a museum years before. Now Moxie and her friends are on a mission to find the artwork before her grandpa is arrested.

Better off Friends. By Elizabeth Eulberg. Levi and Macalan have been best friends since 7th grade. Everyone thinks they are more than just friends. From time to time, each of them considers this possibility but never at the same time.

The Walk On. By John Feinstein. Alex, a new kid in town, must fight for his place on the football team. Matt, the coach's son, is first in line to play quarterback. When Matt is injured, Alex gets his chance but a drug test may take everything away.

Guitar Notes. By Mary Amato. Tripp and Lyla have a love of music, but for different reasons. They share a practice room on opposite days. Lyla writes Tripp a note for leaving the music room a mess; Tripp writes back. More notes follow. What is the meaning behind all the notes?

Iron Trial. By Holly Black and Cassandra Clare. Callum Hunt's father has warned him that he must fail the Iron Trial that would put him in the Magisterium, the magic school. In spite of Call's best efforts to fail, he is selected for the school. There he makes friends and meets dangerous enemies.

All Fall Down. By Ally Carter. Everyone thinks Grace is crazy because she insists her mother's death was murder, not an accident. The truth is even more horrifying.

The Testing. By Joelle Charbonneau. After the Seven Stages War, students are only allowed to go to the University after they survive the Testing. Cia, who passes the Testing, comes to understand why her father warned her to trust no one.

Moxie and the Art of Rule Breaking. By Erin Dionne. Moxie's grandpa, who has a shady past, is accused of stealing artwork from a museum years before. Now Moxie and her friends are on a mission to find the artwork before her grandpa is arrested.

Better off Friends. By Elizabeth Eulberg. Levi and Macalan have been best friends since 7th grade. Everyone thinks they are more than just friends. From time to time, each of them considers this possibility but never at the same time.

The Walk On. By John Feinstein. Alex, a new kid in town, must fight for his place on the football team. Matt, the coach's son, is first in line to play quarterback. When Matt is injured, Alex gets his chance but a drug test may take everything away.

Guitar Notes. By Mary Amato. Tripp and Lyla have a love of music, but for different reasons. They share a practice room on opposite days. Lyla writes Tripp a note for leaving the music room a mess; Tripp writes back. More notes follow. What is the meaning behind all the notes?

Iron Trial. By Holly Black and Cassandra Clare. Callum Hunt's father has warned him that he must fail the Iron Trial that would put him in the Magisterium, the magic school. In spite of Call's best efforts to fail, he is selected for the school. There he makes friends and meets dangerous enemies.

All Fall Down. By Ally Carter. Everyone thinks Grace is crazy because she insists her mother's death was murder, not an accident. The truth is even more horrifying.

The Testing. By Joelle Charbonneau. After the Seven Stages War, students are only allowed to go to the University after they survive the Testing. Cia, who passes the Testing, comes to understand why her father warned her to trust no one.

Moxie and the Art of Rule Breaking. By Erin Dionne. Moxie's grandpa, who has a shady past, is accused of stealing artwork from a museum years before. Now Moxie and her friends are on a mission to find the artwork before her grandpa is arrested.

Better off Friends. By Elizabeth Eulberg. Levi and Macalan have been best friends since 7th grade. Everyone thinks they are more than just friends. From time to time, each of them considers this possibility but never at the same time.

The Walk On. By John Feinstein. Alex, a new kid in town, must fight for his place on the football team. Matt, the coach's son, is first in line to play quarterback. When Matt is injured, Alex gets his chance but a drug test may take everything away.

Don't Turn Around. By Michelle Gagnon On the run after waking up on an operating table with no idea how she got there, Noa bands together with fellow hacker Peter. What they uncover is a secret that could get them killed.

Body in the Woods. By April Henry When three teenagers find the body of a homeless teenager in the woods, they are convinced that they have stumbled on the work of a serial killer. Nick, Ruby and Alexis set out to solve this suspenseful murder mystery.

Chomp. By Carl Hiassen Mickey Cray, professional animal wrangler, is contacted by Derek Badger, egotistical and inept reality TV star, about using one of his crocodiles. Wahoo Cray joins the expedition to keep disaster from happening, but is unable to stop the accidents and trouble that ensues.

Backlash. By Sarah Littman. After Lara loses weight, she joins the cheerleading squad. She attracts the attention of Christian, a boy she meets online. Things are looking up, until Christian starts posting hurtful comments. Then, Lara's life begins to spiral out of control.

Bridge From Me to You. By Lisa Schroeder. Lauren has come to stay with her aunt and uncle because of a terrible incident at home. Colby has a problem with a decision he has to make. They begin to lean on each other, experiencing misunderstandings, but eventually realizing that taking a chance on their convictions is the best choice of all.

Port Chicago 50. By Steve Sheinkin. During WWII black sailors were forced to load bombs onto ships without having any safety training. When disaster strikes and they refuse to return to that dangerous work, 50 of them are charged with mutiny.

One Came Home. By Amy Timberlake. Georgia, determined to prove her sister is not dead, sets out on a journey that will test all her skills. Life in the Wisconsin in the 1870s will feel like the Wild West.

Blackout. By Robinson E. Wells. Teenage terrorists are destroying landmarks across the United States. The government is testing all teenagers for a virus that leads them to have super powers. Can the terrorists be stopped before they destroy the world?

Don't Turn Around. By Michelle Gagnon On the run after waking up on an operating table with no idea how she got there, Noa bands together with fellow hacker Peter. What they uncover is a secret that could get them killed.

Body in the Woods. By April Henry When three teenagers find the body of a homeless teenager in the woods, they are convinced that they have stumbled on the work of a serial killer. Nick, Ruby and Alexis set out to solve this suspenseful murder mystery.

Chomp. By Carl Hiassen Mickey Cray, professional animal wrangler, is contacted by Derek Badger, egotistical and inept reality TV star, about using one of his crocodiles. Wahoo Cray joins the expedition to keep disaster from happening, but is unable to stop the accidents and trouble that ensues.

Backlash. By Sarah Littman. After Lara loses weight, she joins the cheerleading squad. She attracts the attention of Christian, a boy she meets online. Things are looking up, until Christian starts posting hurtful comments. Then, Lara's life begins to spiral out of control.

Bridge From Me to You. By Lisa Schroeder. Lauren has come to stay with her aunt and uncle because of a terrible incident at home. Colby has a problem with a decision he has to make. They begin to lean on each other, experiencing misunderstandings, but eventually realizing that taking a chance on their convictions is the best choice of all.

Port Chicago 50. By Steve Sheinkin. During WWII black sailors were forced to load bombs onto ships without having any safety training. When disaster strikes and they refuse to return to that dangerous work, 50 of them are charged with mutiny.

One Came Home. By Amy Timberlake. Georgia, determined to prove her sister is not dead, sets out on a journey that will test all her skills. Life in the Wisconsin in the 1870s will feel like the Wild West.

Blackout. By Robinson E. Wells. Teenage terrorists are destroying landmarks across the United States. The government is testing all teenagers for a virus that leads them to have super powers. Can the terrorists be stopped before they destroy the world?

Don't Turn Around. By Michelle Gagnon On the run after waking up on an operating table with no idea how she got there, Noa bands together with fellow hacker Peter. What they uncover is a secret that could get them killed.

Body in the Woods. By April Henry When three teenagers find the body of a homeless teenager in the woods, they are convinced that they have stumbled on the work of a serial killer. Nick, Ruby and Alexis set out to solve this suspenseful murder mystery.

Chomp. By Carl Hiassen Mickey Cray, professional animal wrangler, is contacted by Derek Badger, egotistical and inept reality TV star, about using one of his crocodiles. Wahoo Cray joins the expedition to keep disaster from happening, but is unable to stop the accidents and trouble that ensues.

Backlash. By Sarah Littman. After Lara loses weight, she joins the cheerleading squad. She attracts the attention of Christian, a boy she meets online. Things are looking up, until Christian starts posting hurtful comments. Then, Lara's life begins to spiral out of control.

Bridge From Me to You. By Lisa Schroeder. Lauren has come to stay with her aunt and uncle because of a terrible incident at home. Colby has a problem with a decision he has to make. They begin to lean on each other, experiencing misunderstandings, but eventually realizing that taking a chance on their convictions is the best choice of all.

Port Chicago 50. By Steve Sheinkin. During WWII black sailors were forced to load bombs onto ships without having any safety training. When disaster strikes and they refuse to return to that dangerous work, 50 of them are charged with mutiny.

One Came Home. By Amy Timberlake. Georgia, determined to prove her sister is not dead, sets out on a journey that will test all her skills. Life in the Wisconsin in the 1870s will feel like the Wild West.

Blackout. By Robinson E. Wells. Teenage terrorists are destroying landmarks across the United States. The government is testing all teenagers for a virus that leads them to have super powers. Can the terrorists be stopped before they destroy the world?football, but is this dream in jeopardy?

Don't Turn Around. By Michelle Gagnon On the run after waking up on an operating table with no idea how she got there, Noa bands together with fellow hacker Peter. What they uncover is a secret that could get them killed.

Body in the Woods. By April Henry When three teenagers find the body of a homeless teenager in the woods, they are convinced that they have stumbled on the work of a serial killer. Nick, Ruby and Alexis set out to solve this suspenseful murder mystery.

Chomp. By Carl Hiassen Mickey Cray, professional animal wrangler, is contacted by Derek Badger, egotistical and inept reality TV star, about using one of his crocodiles. Wahoo Cray joins the expedition to keep disaster from happening, but is unable to stop the accidents and trouble that ensues.

Backlash. By Sarah Littman. After Lara loses weight, she joins the cheerleading squad. She attracts the attention of Christian, a boy she meets online. Things are looking up, until Christian starts posting hurtful comments. Then, Lara's life begins to spiral out of control.

Bridge From Me to You. By Lisa Schroeder. Lauren has come to stay with her aunt and uncle because of a terrible incident at home. Colby has a problem with a decision he has to make. They begin to lean on each other, experiencing misunderstandings, but eventually realizing that taking a chance on their convictions is the best choice of all.

Port Chicago 50. By Steve Sheinkin. During WWII black sailors were forced to load bombs onto ships without having any safety training. When disaster strikes and they refuse to return to that dangerous work, 50 of them are charged with mutiny.

One Came Home. By Amy Timberlake. Georgia, determined to prove her sister is not dead, sets out on a journey that will test all her skills. Life in the Wisconsin in the 1870s will feel like the Wild West.

Blackout. By Robinson E. Wells. Teenage terrorists are destroying landmarks across the United States. The government is testing all teenagers for a virus that leads them to have super powers. Can the terrorists be stopped before they destroy the world?